

From the Commissioner

The N.C. State Fair begins Thursday, Oct. 11, and runs through Sunday, Oct. 21. Once again, we will participate in the Department of Agriculture's safety press conference prior to the gates opening to the public. This is our opportunity to update the public on the status of the ride inspection process and promote ride safety on the midway with patrons.

If the weather holds out, we will invite Commissioner Troxler and members of the media to test-drive a few of the rides afterward. I hope we also find time to sample some of this year's new deep-fried concoctions. Rumor has it there will be deep-fried Girl Scout cookies on the midway.

During the course of the fair, I will present awards to the winners of the apprentice contests and visit the NCDOL booth.

The apprentice contests are shaping up to be exciting competitions. We currently have nine contestants registered for the new masonry pre-apprentice contest, and there are 17 teams of two high school students registered for carpentry. In addition, the electrical contest has 30 contestants registered with three alternates. Twenty more contestants will compete in the pipefitting, plumbing, masonry and HV/AC-R contests. Click here for the schedule of events and other information about the contests.

The NCDOL booth will once again be located in the Scott Building. This year we are introducing a new trivia game that we hope will be fun and engaging for kids and adults who visit our booth. Volunteers for the booth will learn how the trivia game works at the training session scheduled for Thursday, Oct. 4.

I'm looking forward to attending the OSHCON Region IV Project managers meeting on Oct. 9 in Wilmington with Consultative Services. Some of the topics that will be covered include the role of consultation and SHARP; federal budget information; the vision and outlook for Consultative Services; Region IV updates and SHARP success stories in both general industry and public sector. It should be an informative and interesting conference.

As we head into the final quarter of 2012, you will begin receiving emails about the Employee Appreciation Program. Seventy-four of our colleagues will be recognized for their service to the state and/or for superlative awards. I look forward to personally recognizing these employees for their contributions.

State Web Portal Redesigned

ITS, with the help of all state agencies, has modernized the design and updated the content of www.nc.gov. Volunteer teams of state employees from several agencies focused on design, ease of use and navigation. The site has undergone lots of user testing, but we know we need more.

This is your chance to take a look at the new site and provide comments. Click here to read about the redesign. Use the link on that page to fully review the new site. Then provide feedback using the survey link at the top of each page.

State employees will also want to check out the employee directory. It can be found under “Contacts” at the top of every page. This directory uses contact information found in Beacon, with email fed by the employee’s NCID account (as long as it’s a work email—personal email addresses are not included). There’s a separate survey for the directory—you’ll find a link to the survey under search results. Concerns about the data should be addressed to Human Resources.
